Dedication

TO ARTHUR MARRIOTT SHIPLEY, surgeon, student, teacher and gentleman this first edition of Reflexions is dedicated as an expression of the admiration and esteem held for him by those of us who have come under his influence. May we in the days ahead pause to remember the sincerity of the efforts and the wisdom of the teachings of the man known affectionately as "King Arthur."

History of the School of Medicine

On December 18, 1807, an Act was passed to create "The College of Medicine of Maryland" in the City of Baltimore. This institution, which was the forerunner of our present school, was the fifth medical college to be established in this country. The original building was erected in 1812 and was the one which is now nicknamed "Chem Hall." It bears the distinction of being the oldest structure in the United States which has continuously granted the degree of doctor of medicine annually since its erection. By action of the Legislature the University of Maryland was created in 1812. This university was composed of the Medical, the Law, the Arts and Sciences, and the Divinity colleges. The medical sessions were four months long and consisted almost entirely of didactic lectures. Dissection was not compulsory. Clinical material became available in 1823 with the establishment of The Baltimore Infirmary—the present University Hospital. A regulation of the new hospital made it compulsory that the Bible should be read daily in each ward.

The school continued to grow rapidly in size and scope for many years, with the exception of a short period when administrative disorders between the Trustees and the Regents were responsible for a split of the college into two distinct camps. During these years of progress many new departments were added and others were revised. Dissection was made a necessary part of the curriculum in 1848 and gas lights were installed in the dissecting rooms so that the students could work at night. Separate chairs of gynecology and pediatrics were established in 1867. Ophthalmology and otology were instituted in 1873 as independent departments.

About the turn of the last century there were at least six medical colleges in Baltimore, none of which could satisfactorily meet the present day requirements of a class "A" school. In order that this situation be corrected several of the schools consolidated. The Baltimore Medical College merged with the University of Maryland in 1913 and the College of Physicians and Surgeons followed suit in 1915. Several of the other schools gradually were discontinued and today there remain only the University of Maryland School of Medicine and College of Physicians and Surgeons, and "that other school across town."

The present day facilities of the university are the original building, the Administration Building, the Gray Lab, the laboratory building on Green Street, the Frank C. Bressler Research Laboratories, the Medical Library, the Out-patient Department in the old hospital building, and the new 435 bed University Hospital which was completed in 1934. Added teaching facilities are made available to the students through arrangements with other institutions in and near Baltimore. The Baltimore City Hospitals are open to members of the junior class for clinical instruction in medicine, surgery and the specialties. The junior students also have access to the dispensary of the Baltimore Eye, Ear, and Throat Hospital. The clinical material of Mercy Hospital is entirely under the control of the Faculty and one half of the senior year is spent there in the wards and classrooms. The James Lawrence Kernan Hospital at Dickeyville is used for instruction in treatment of orthopaedic conditions in children.

Plans for the not too distant future envision enlargement of the capacity of University Hospital and erection of new laboratory buildings.

University of Maryland Units

In 1941, upon the request of the Surgeon General's Office, the University of Maryland Medical School formed a thousand bed general hospital. This unit—known as the 42nd General Hospital—was developed from representative members of the medical, dental and nursing schools.

Following the out-break of war in December 1941, it was thought that with the newer tactical problems being demonstrated, General Hospitals, to be of value in the Pacific, should be more mobile and flexible. Accordingly—and again at the request of the Surgeon General's Office—the School consented to break the unit into two 500 bed General Hospitals. This was done in March 1942 by approximately dividing the staff of the larger unit into two units—known as the 42nd General Hospital and the 142nd General Hospital. Shortages in certain specialized fields that existed as a result of this division, were overcome from Army sources.

About a year after activation, due to the need of more beds and increased staffs, each unit was independently re-expanded to a 1,000 bed General Hospital. Each retained its original designation.

The units were activated on 20 April 1942; the 42nd General Hospital being ordered to Ft. Custer, Michigan and the 142nd to Ft. Riley, Kansas.

Both units, after two weeks intergration and indoctrination, were then ordered to San Francisco, California. After a brief exchange of greetings each unit sailed independently of the other, into the Pacific. The 42nd sailed on 19 May 1942 and arrived at its destination—Australia—on 1 June 1942. The 142nd sailed on 26 May 1942—and after a two weeks pause in New Zealand—arrived at its destination—the Fiji Islands—about 1 July 1942. It opened a tent type hospital on 12 July 1942. The 42nd—at about this time—was in Brisbane, Australia, where it was establishing a hospital in a convent school building.

The 142nd, about eight months after establishing its first hospital, moved into a cantonment type unit, at another location in the Fiji Islands. The 42nd, after functioning for about one and a half years in converted buildings, moved into a cantonment type hospital—still in the same relative geographical area (Australia).

In September 1944, the 142nd General Hospital was moved to Calcutta, India, where it established itself in a large tile and concrete hospital building with spacious verandas.

The 42nd General Hospital moved to Manila, Philippine Islands, in May 1945. In August 1945, it moved to Yokohama, Japan, and after processing all American and Allied Prisoners of War, established itself in a very modern fire-proof hospital in Tokyo.

All original members of the 142nd General Hospital had returned home by August 1945; those of the 42nd by December 1945.

Both units had interesting and varied experiences and both contributed their full share to the history of World War II. Each in its own way added a valuable chapter to the military history of the University of Maryland

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS
UNITED STATES ARMY FORCES, PACIFIC
Office of the Commander-in-Chief

26 September 1946

To : Commanding Officer, 42nd General Hospital

Subject: Commendation

On the occasion of the opening of St. Isaac's Hospital by the 42nd General Hospital, I desire to make my grateful appreciation for the splendid services your officers, nurses and medical men have rendered in the campaign which culminated in the liberation of the Philippines and the occupation of Japan.

Through that long bitter period from May 1944 when your hospital first arrived in Australia, until peace was restored upon the surrender of Japan, it has proved a tower of strength in assisting to the sick and wounded of our military forces committed in the South West Pacific area and thereby has upheld the highest traditions of the American Army and thereby has upheld the highest traditions of the American Army and the medical and nursing professions as well.

All personnel of the 42nd General Hospital my merry wish that upon return to civil life a sense of that deep satisfaction which alone springs from duty well done.

Class History by C. C.

DATE: March 22, 1946.

NAME: Class of '46.

SEX: Female 3, Male 95.

AGE: 23.

OCCUPATION: Clinical Clerks.

ADMITTED: April 6, 1943.

C. C. Not enough money . . . not enough parties . . . not enough holidays
. . . not enough sleep . . . not enough!!!

P. I. Symptoms first appeared on the day of registration. After three months of being initiated into the whys and wherefores of medical school life service uniforms were donned by most of the class. Thereafter Saturday afternoons were spent in the ranks learning the intricacies of close order drill and griping (largely at the cadet officers). By this time signs of premature alopecia were becoming more and more evident (this lesion has continued to increase in severity). A slight variation of this disease, trichotillomania, appeared on the scalp of one student as his skull leisurely bounced from step to step to the floor of Anatomical Hall. The moral learned in histology was that all geese do not lay golden eggs. On Bressler 3 we were led into the mystic realm of the drug kingdom, and while pigeons gaily flitted overhead we chased rats around the floor. The next floor up unfolded the secrets of what little girls are made of and why we little boys love them so. The third year many of us spent developing Junioritis—from carcinoma of the stomach to hydrocephalic children. There were ten cases of Infectious Mononucleosis—the medical students claim to fame. The number of operations totalled four—all appendectomies. We ran true to form in Clinical Pathology when 11% of us came out Rh negative. In the senior year we used up most of our energy shuttling back and forth between Mercy and University. Any knowledge gained between shuttles was purely accidental.

P. H. The average student had sixteen years of school. We learned to read but many professors claim that we still can't write.

M. H. Forty-two members (42.85%—we're still trying to determine who's only 0.85% of a man) tied the knot. There are sixteen children, all of whom are L and W. Our efforts in the obstetrical department yielded approximately 1,012 future citizens.

R. O. S.

General: The average weight gain was fifteen pounds or some 1,450 pounds total—a lot of meat, what with rationing and all.

Respiratory: Thirst: Marked increase in non-aqueous solutions.

Night sweats: Present—if you know what we mean.

Sinusitis: Of course.

Dyspnea: (Differentiate from sighing) Yes—after chasing up and down the stairs trying to catch the elevators.

Asthma: Present—Sensitivity to women, dust, dander, women, couches, furs, women, automobile seats, pollen, women.

Halitosis: Certainly—that's better than no breath at all.

Orthopnea: Some have been known to sit up in bed all night—or was that to keep the walls from closing in?

Cardiovascular:

Blood Pressure: High on Saturday night, shock levels the following A. M.

Heart Consciousness: Yes, both subjectively and objectively.

Edema: Three plus pitting from the five days at City.

Gastrointestinal:

Appetite: Voracious (if you don't understand that word we refer you to the above weight change statistics)

Eating Habits: Solid diet from 8 A. M. to 8 P. M.; liquid from 8 P. M. to 8 A. M.

Constipation: Yes—of thoughts.

Diarrhea: Yes—of words. Also 66.2 bouts of Sayle's disease.

B. M.: Total of 105,000.

Gas: We've taken plenty.

Genitourinary:

Male: See the Army.

Female: Perfect ladies.

Menstrual: Please . . . !

Special Senses:

Eyes: Photophobia, bilateral ptosis, failing vision.

Ears: Pointed (wolves?).

Nose: Acquired anosmia (try working on 2B without it).

Mouth: Feels like the Russian Army marching through with their socks on.

Neurological:

Nerves: We have them—one way or the other.

Reflexes: Sluggish.

Headache: The morning after.

Numbness: Gluteal anoxia.

Locomotion: Disturbances of gait, frequent stiffness in "joints".

Aphonia: In King Arthur's Court.

Habits and Environment:

Exclusive membership in the Poker Club, the Bacteriological Baseball Club, the Hubba Hubba Club, the Eutaw Club, the Club Charles.

Diversions: Are you kidding—we're good students.

Sleep: Intermittant and troubled.

Smoking: 1,200,000 cigarettes.

Alcohol: Who? Us?

Financial State: Best in history of school.

JAY WARREN EATON, Class of 1946

Bethesda, Maryland

September 24, 1921—July 13, 1945

Jay's friendly and gentlemanly attitude, his efforts to achieve a medical education and degree, and his sincere desire to be a doctor of worth were always not only a tribute to the men with whom he was associated, but also to the medical profession itself.

Eaton attended the University of Maryland, College Park, from February 1939 to February 1943, and the University of Maryland, School of Medicine, from April 1943 to July 1945 when, at the conclusion of his Junior year, he was untimely killed in an automobile accident.

Eaton was a loyal brother of Nu Sigma Nu and served as Secretary of that organization during his Junior year. The happy memories of associations with Jay will always be fondly remembered by all who knew him.

History of Nu Sigma Nu

Twice a month, "up at the house" on Park Avenue, seventy men, less than more, meet to enjoy one another's company and good spirits. These seventy are the active members of Beta Alpha Chapter of Nu Sigma Nu.

Nu Sigma Nu, founded in 1882 at the University of Michigan by Will Mayo and five others, is the oldest medical fraternity in this country. Beta Alpha Chapter of the University of Maryland, chartered in 1904 with six active members has grown through the years until its members including alumni now total four hundred and eighty-two. Forty-six of the alumni are now members of the faculty.

In keeping with tradition, the Nu Sigs attempt each year to see that their education is well rounded. Due to the efforts of the social committee, the results of this attempt were promising. They tried a smoker, complete with keg and tire pump and liking it, repeated it. The Christmas spirit caught them and they had a banquet with underprivileged children as their guests. In deference to their august brethren the New Year featured the alumni banquet with "fratre in facultate" in attendance and 'shingles' for the seniors. The annual formal dance climaxed the year.

As a memorial to Jay Eaton, of the class of 1946, who was killed in an automobile accident, they established a scholarship award.

History of Phi Chi

The Phi Chi Medical Fraternity was founded at the University of Vermont in 1889. In the fifty-seven years since its inception the organization has grown rapidly and today it has the largest membership of any medical fraternity in the world.

The present chapter originated in 1895 as the Beta Beta Chapter at the Baltimore Medical College. It holds the distinction of being the third oldest chapter in the fraternity. Between the years of 1913 and 1915 the Baltimore Medical College and the College of Physicians and Surgeons united with the University of Maryland. From the combining of the various chapters in these schools there emerged the now existing Beta Delta. There are now seventy-nine men on the active roster and over one thousand alumni, thirty-five of whom are on the faculty.

The activities of the fraternity are arranged to provide both social affairs and educational opportunities. The social functions consist of several smokers, numerous informal dances, banquets with talks by faculty members, and the annual formal dance. Throughout the year there are periodic showings of surgical films with accompanying lectures. These movies are open to all members of the school.

History of Phi Delta Epsilon

Phi Delta Epsilon Fraternity was founded on October 13, 1904, at Cornell University under the guidance of Aaron Brown. The fraternity under his leadership stretched from coast to coast and into Canada, with fifty-four active chapters and twenty alumni clubs.

In 1906 at the Baltimore Medical College, the Delta Chapter was formed and a few years later the Epsilon Chapter was established at the University of Maryland. When the two schools merged in 1913, the two chapters united to form the present Delta Epsilon Chapter. This chapter was the nucleus out of which grew the fourth district of the fraternity with headquarters in Baltimore and chapters in Maryland, Virginia, Georgia and the District of Columbia. At about the same time a Phi Delta Epsilon Club of Baltimore was established in order to maintain the friendships that grew up in medical school and to help the undergraduate chapters of the fraternity whenever necessary.

Throughout the history of Delta Epsilon there has always been a fraternity house. In 1945, after the old house burned down, a new one was secured at 2336 Eutaw Place. Within its confines the brothers throw an informal dance every other week during the school year. Also on the social calendar is a farwell banquet and formal dance. At this affair the seniors are given keys, the new officers installed, and the new members initiated. Today there are twenty-seven active members and pledges.

In its desire to promote the knowledge of medicine, Phi Delta Epsilon has established a series of lectures to be given for the students, faculty, and graduates of the University of Maryland. This lecture is given annually by a noted physician from another school, who delivers his address in historic Chemical Hall.

The 3316th Service Command Unit was the numerical designation of the unit activated at the School of Medicine, University of Maryland, on 2 June 1943. A total of seven officers and eight enlisted men were assigned as cadre to handle the administrative details and to give instruction in military courses.

Under the capable leadership of Lt. Col. William H. Howland the unit was soon functioning smoothly. Upon Colonel Howland's departure to a new assignment 1st Lieut. Ralph J. Henry was appointed commandant. After serving for a short time Lieut. Henry was promoted to a captaincy and subsequently transferred to a new station.

The unit's third commandant was Lt. Col. John C. Peth, a National Guard Infantry officer from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Many changes took place while Colonel Peth was in command. Due to the inactivation of the dental part of the program the trainee strength of the unit was nearly cut in half. This necessitated a reduction in the cadre to two officers and three enlisted men.

Upon Colonel Peth's return to civilian life in November 1945, 1st Lieut. Philip E. Biege was appointed commanding officer. Lieut. Biege was one of the original cadre of the organization, and as such was well qualified to head the unit.

The graduating class of 22 March 1946 could be classified as the "baby" of the outfit. They are the first group to complete fully their medical training under the Army Specialized Training Advanced Program.

Drill At Homewood

Navy

On July 1, 1943, the V-12 program was activated at the University of Maryland, and the school was partially transformed into a training center for medical officers for the United States Navy. The accessibility of the Richmond Market Armory enabled the evolution of civilians to apprentice seamen to be effected with a minimum of effort. Following this arduous ordeal the men were given a few days of rest before being ordered back to school.

Lt. Roderic D. Matthews became the first Commanding Officer of the unit, but after three months of duty he was ordered to the Bureau of Naval Personnel. Lt. J. S. Lee then took over the task of leading the outfit and remained until February 1944 when Lt. Matthews returned. One month later Lt. Matthews was again transferred. His successor this time was Lt. (jg) R. J. Richards who remained as Officer in Charge until the close of the program.

Life in the Navy, as lived at the University of Maryland, proved to be rather simple. Meetings were not a prominent part of the schedule,—the only ones which were ever looked forward to were those around the fifth of the month. After two and one-half years this all came to an end at Bainbridge in November 1945 when the three upper classes were returned to civilian status and put on inactive duty in order to complete their medical education. On January 26, 1946, the freshman class was transferred to the Separation Center for their release.

History of the School of Nursing

In 1889 a training school for nurses was organized under the supervision of Louisa Parsons, a distinguished graduate of St. Thomas' Hospital, London, England. As Miss Parsons was a personal friend of Miss Nightingale, she was given the honor and privilege of bringing with her the original Florence Nightingale graduate cap. St. Thomas' Hospital, London, England, St. Luke's Hospital, Canada, and University Hospital are the only hospitals which are allowed the great privilege of wearing the original Florence Nightingale graduate cap.

The hospital is much indebted to Miss Parsons for her valuable aid in putting the training school on a firm foundation, and in recognition of her service the new home for nurses was named the Louisa Parsons Home and formally opened in November, 1922.

Although the training school has had quite a few superintendents, they have always maintained the high standards that were set by Miss Parsons. This accredited school attracts young women from all parts of the United States and some from South America. The hospital staff takes great interest in the education and well being of the student nurses. In addition to the many hours of lectures and classwork, they are always willing to aid the student and explain any new or interesting case.

In addition to the regular three-year course of training, the University offers a combined Academic and Nursing program leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science and a Diploma in Nursing.

During the last war the Forty-Second and One Hundred and Forty-Second General Hospitals, comprised mostly of University of Maryland graduates, were commended for their outstanding work in Australia, the Philippines and Japan.

Student Government Association

The Student Government Association which was organized in October of 1943 is very active in a legislative, executive, and judicial respect. The student body decides all rules which are compiled in a constitution. Penalties for infringements are dispensed by the Student Council, which is the executive council of the Student Government Association. The Recreation Committee is quite active in planning a full and diversified program.

The purpose of the organization is to create a greater interest and pride in the Nurses' Home, to make it a more attractive place, to improve conditions for sleep and study, and to draw the girls in the various classes closer together.

The Student Council meets the last Friday in each month and the student body meets the first Monday in each month. At each meeting the students are free to discuss problems which have arisen and suggest ideas for improvement.

"Should Auld Acquaintance..."

Whenever you or your friends come back to Baltimore on business, pleasure or for Class Reunions, be sure to remember the Lord Baltimore Hotel. This great hotel has been downtown headquarters for Terp Old Grads for years. Mainly (we've been told), because there's a lot of sheer comfort in its room appointments, good food in its restaurants and fine service everywhere.

AN ENDLESS FIGHT

In the endless fight against disease, Schering has always endeavored to pioneer in the field of research—research which has made available the most effective therapeutic weapons.
We pledge to hold high this standard and to wield the sharpened sword of research—with ever more telling strokes.

"When you see one of us on a package of medicine or food, it means first of all that the manufacturer thought enough of the product to be willing to have it and his claims carefully examined by a board of critical, unbiased experts . . . We're glad to tell you that this product was examined, that the manufacturer was willing to listen to criticisms and suggestions the Council made, that he signified his willingness to restrict his advertising claims to proved ones, and that he will keep the Council informed of any intended changes in product or claims . . . There may be other similar products as good as this one, but when you see us on a package, you know. Why guess, or why take someone's self-interested word? If the product is everything the manufacturer claims, he should have no reason for hesitancy in submitting it to the Council."

Peace

“With malice toward none;
with charity to all; with firmness in the right . . . to care for him who shall have borne the battle . . . to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all other nations.”

ABRAHAM LINCOLN
2nd Inaugural Address
March 4th, 1865.

TRULY--We Are the Most Blessed Nation on Earth!

GLORY is ours in abundance; FREEDOM, without hindrance, is ours also. We are richer than the wildest dream of Midas—we can turn dross into pure gold almost with the wave of a magic wand. Civilized people, the world over, are hungry—but not us. Our victory last year was the greatest in all history. . . . The troubles we now fear are trivial or actually do not exist—they are chiefly the spawns of distorted imagination. . . . From the Boston Tea Party until today we have, as a nation, marched onward and upward. Astounding as it may sound, we are the richest and most powerful nation on earth. SO—let us count our blessings together!
Let us be friends—and happy, successful Americans. Let us all buckle down again to creative efforts of material production and fully enjoy the mental ease and physical comforts which are our inalienable rights. . . .

This first edition of Reflexions is an attempt to revive a school function which passed out of being some fifteen years ago. It is hoped that the oncoming classes will see fit to continue the annual, as we believe that it furnishes an excellent means of stimulating interest in the university.
